NEW QUESTION: 2

A datalink can best be described as_____.

- A. a device that provides Classless Inter-Domain Routing
- B. the software connecting the Internet Layer and the Physical Layer
- C. a logical object used for IP Multipathing
- D. a driver for a Network Interface Card

Answer: C

Explanation:

The command `dladm` is used to configure data-link interfaces in Sun Solaris. A configured data-link is represented in the system as interface that can be used for TCP/IP. Each data-link relies on either a single network device or an link aggregation device to send & receive packets.

Network interfaces provide the connection between the system and the network. These interfaces are configured over data links, which in turn correspond to instances of hardware devices in the system.

In the current model of the network stack, interfaces and links on the software layer build on the devices in the hardware layer. More specifically, a hardware device instance in the hardware layer has a corresponding link on the data-link layer and a configured interface on the interface layer. This one-to-one relationship among the network device, its data link, and the IP interface is illustrated in the figure that follows.
