NEW QUESTION: 1

When is it useful to disable split horizon on an EIGRP interface?

- A. Disable it when you need to send updates to peers on the interface on which the updates were received.
- B. It is never advisable to disable split horizon on an EIGRP interface.
- C. Disable it when you want to provide additional backup paths in your network.
- D. Disable it when you want to send routes that are learned from another routing protocol to peer on the same interface.

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION: 2

Vendors typically ship software applications with security settings disabled by default to ensure a wide range of interoperability with other applications and devices. Which of the following should a security administrator perform before deploying new software?

- A. Application hardening

- B. Network penetration testing
- C. Application white listing
- D. Input fuzzing testing

Answer: A

Explanation:

Section: Application, Data and Host Security

Explanation/Reference:

Explanation:

Hardening is the process of securing a system by reducing its surface of vulnerability. Reducing the surface of vulnerability typically includes removing unnecessary functions and features, removing unnecessary usernames or logins and disabling unnecessary services.

NEW QUESTION: 3

Given:

What is the result?

- A. A NumberFormatException will be thrown.
- B. 120D
- C. 0
- D. Compilation fails due to error at line 5.
- E. Compilation fails due to error at line 8.

Answer: E

Explanation:

At line 5, we have created a wrapper object of double by passing 120D, which is convertible to a Double, so there won't be any exception there. But if you check carefully, you can see the variable number is declared inside try block, so the scope of the variable number is limited to that block, so trying to access it outside causes a compile time error.
